

The Rutgers University Conference,
“Re-evaluating Africa and WWII”
 Proudly Presents Two Film Screenings:

“DAYS OF GLORY—INDIGENES”

a prize-winning French film on the participation of four idealistic Algerian men in the French liberation army. Three of our scholars, specialists on Francophone Africa, will lead a discussion.

Date: Thursday, March 27, 2008

Time: 8pm

Place: Alexander Library’s Scholarly Communication Center (CAC)

Photo credit: Tessalit Productions

“THE 761ST BATTALION”

a documentary on the first African American tank unit, 'The Black Panthers', who served with distinction in the Battle of the Bulge and elsewhere in the European Theater. The producer and a consultant will lead a discussion.

Date: Friday, March 28, 2008

Time: 8pm

Place: Milledoler Hall 100 (CAC)

Photo credit: US 761st Tank Battalion Insignia

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY INTERNAL SPONSORS

School of Arts and Sciences; Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs;
 Office of Undergraduate Education, Academic Engagement and Programming; International Programs;
 Center for Historical Analysis, Black Atlantic Seminar Series; Committee to Advance Our Common Purposes
 Department of History; Center for African Studies; Center for Race and Ethnicity; Rutgers University Libraries;
 Rutgers Oral History Archives

EXTERNAL SPONSORS

Cornell University’s Africana Studies Department and Columbia University’s Institute for African Studies

DIRECTIONS

Alexander Library: <http://maps.rutgers.edu/building.aspx?id=17>
 Milledoler Hall: <http://maps.rutgers.edu/building.aspx?id=397>

For information on the “Re-evaluating Africa and WWII” conference contact Carolyn Brown: cbrown@panix.com

RUTGERS

School of Arts and Sciences