Shadows of Your Dark Memory, and The Dream and Other Stories

A talk by esteemed Equatorial Guinean author

DONATO NDONGO

The Department of Spanish and Portuguese is delighted to welcome Donato Ndongo-Bidyogo to Rutgers. Ndongo is a celebrated poet, novelist and short story writer, literary critic, historian and journalist. He was born and spent the earlier part of his life in the West African nation of Equatorial Guinea, but as a result of the decades of authoritarian rule there, and of his unwavering and courageous advocacy of freedom, he has resided in exile in Spain for many years.
